

In order to improve quality services to our customers and to our distributors, we opened a position for Junior Technical Sales and Support, permanent, based in Les Ulis, France. Interviews during next weeks, starting as soon as possible.

Please find here below some relevant info and feel free to share this information to whom it may be interested.

Description:

The candidate should have good technical bases in optics and be able to keep quickly acquiring new competences. He should act as a bridge between the customers (typically scientific researchers, R&D developers and distributors) and the technical employees of the factory to find and propose the best solution.

His work will include the following tasks (the list is not exhaustive): preparation of custom quotations, analysis of customer requests, support of the customer with proper technical feedback, demonstration and tests of the products.

The market includes a vast area (Europe/Russia/ Middle east/Africa), thus a good level of English is required.

It is mandatory a good handling of the basic IT tools (email, internet, Office, ...) and greatly welcomed additional skills (Zemax, CAD, programming, ...). The candidate will be integrated in a small active and growing team; a polyvalent and flexible nature is highly appreciated.

About Optosigma Europe: Optosigma Europe is the new subsidiary of Sigma-Koki group (Japan). We are world leader in providing opto-mechanics components and systems. Our peculiarity is to be fully flexible and inclined toward the special custom needs that researchers in Photonics have.
